Naperville City Councilman considering mayoral campaign Kenn Miller to launch exploratory committee

NAPERVILLE, ILLINOIS – Naperville City Councilman Kenn Miller has announced that he will form an exploratory committee to consider running for Mayor of Naperville. The findings, he said, will help him determine campaign needs and gauge support for the 2011 mayoral race.

“Running against a friend who has been Mayor for almost 16 years would be the biggest challenge of my political career,” said Miller, who has served nearly six years as councilman. “I love Naperville and I love serving the people of this community. Opportunity appears to be knocking right now, and I would rather not wait another four years.”

“Should I decide to run, I would bring a different approach to guide our city through the current economic challenge. I would focus on job creation, revenue improvement, balancing the budget and continuing the delivery of quality services to our taxpayers,” Miller added.

Miller was first elected to the City Council in 2005 and re-elected in 2009. He served on the Naperville Plan Commission for two years from 2003 - 2005, and as a Wheatland Township Trustee from 2000 - 2003. With more than 30 years of business experience, Miller continues to share his expertise as a member of both the Naperville Development Partnership and Downtown Naperville Alliance boards, and with the DuPage Mayors & Managers Legislative Committee.

In addition, Miller has donated much of his time to community organizations such as Citizens Appreciate Public Safety, Naperville Exchange Club and the Downtown Rotary Club. He is the past president of the River Run Homeowners Association, and was the founder of the South Homeowners of Wheatland (SHOW). He also served as a delegate to the Naperville Area Homeowners Confederation from 1998 - 2003.

Kenn Miller and his wife Janice have been residents of Naperville since 1995 and have two daughters and three grandchildren. The couple currently lives at the Carillon Club of Naperville.
